

How to Make Corn Husk Dolls

MATERIALS:

String

Scissors

9 – 12 pieces of corn husk

Fabric (optional)

Helpful Hint If you use fresh corn husks to make corn husk dolls, the husks shrivel as they dry and the string loosens. To ensure the dolls stay the way you want them, let the husks dry in the sun for a few days before assembling dolls.

DIRECTIONS

1.

Take four cornhusks and arrange them in as shown.

2.

Using a small piece of string, tie the straight ends together tightly.

3.

Trim and round the edges with scissors.

4.

Turn upside down and pull long ends of husks down over the trimmed edges.

5.

Tie with string to form the "head."

6.

Take another husk, flatten it, and roll into a tight cylinder.

7.

Tie each end with string. This forms the doll's arms.

8.

Fit the arms inside of the long husks, just below the "neck."

9.

Tie with string, as shown, to form a "waist."

10.

Drape a husk around the arms and upper body in a criss-cross pattern to form "shoulders."

11.

Take four or five husks, straight edges together, and arrange around waist. These form a "skirt" for the doll.

12.

Tie with string.

13.

If desired, follow the diagram to form legs for the doll. Tie legs with small strips of husks as indicated. Finish off the doll by tying small strips of husk around the neck and waist to hide the string. Small scraps of cloth may be used to dress the doll
